Questions and Answers

This following is a compilation of questions received from possible proponents up to 12:00 pm on Wednesday, October 18, 2023, and the answers to these questions.

(1) Question

As the incumbent, would we need to include jar testing results with our submission?

Response

To allow comparison, incumbent suppliers also need to include jar test reports with their submissions. Jar test results need to be included with the submissions with information on each recommended product.

(2) Question

We were looking for technical data sheets for the mentioned products to determine the charge density and molecular weight of these polymers in order to make the recommendations. Is it possible for you to provide us with the technical data sheets?

Response

The RDN does not have technical data sheets for the incumbent products. Our incumbent suppliers would also consider this information to be proprietary.
